

Put a car on the rack. Your guests already parked the rig.

Motorhome guests do not want to unhook camp and thread a 30-foot coach through the park. They want a small local car for the day. That is Lookout.

What you do

- Keep the rack card in the lobby, the office, or the check-in packet.
- That's the ask. No counter. No keys on your lot.
- If a guest asks, send them to lookoutparks.com — pickup is in this gateway town.

Why it helps you

Guests who can reach the park without moving the coach stay longer and leave happier. You are not a rental desk. You are the place they heard about a local car.

What they get

- Camp stays set up.
- A car from someone who lives here — sedans, 4x4s, vans, whatever is listed.
- They return it to town. You still have an occupied site.

If you have a car in the lot

Staff and neighbors can list any car they actually drive — sedan, truck, van, 4x4. Hosts set the daily rate at lookoutparks.com.

A local car. At the trailhead. Private marketplace — not the National Park Service.
Hand this sheet to the manager. Leave a stack of 4×9 rack cards and the trifold on the desk.
